ZONE V: UPLAND

ALTITUDE: 1800M LATITUDE: 1°17'S LONGITUDE: 36°49'E

This zone refers to areas at altitudes between about 1500 and 2000 m, mainly mountains and plateaus. They are generally cool areas where some heating is welcome on the coolest days of the year. High relative humidity is rare during the day, but is the norm at night. Breezes are moderate with no predominant direction.

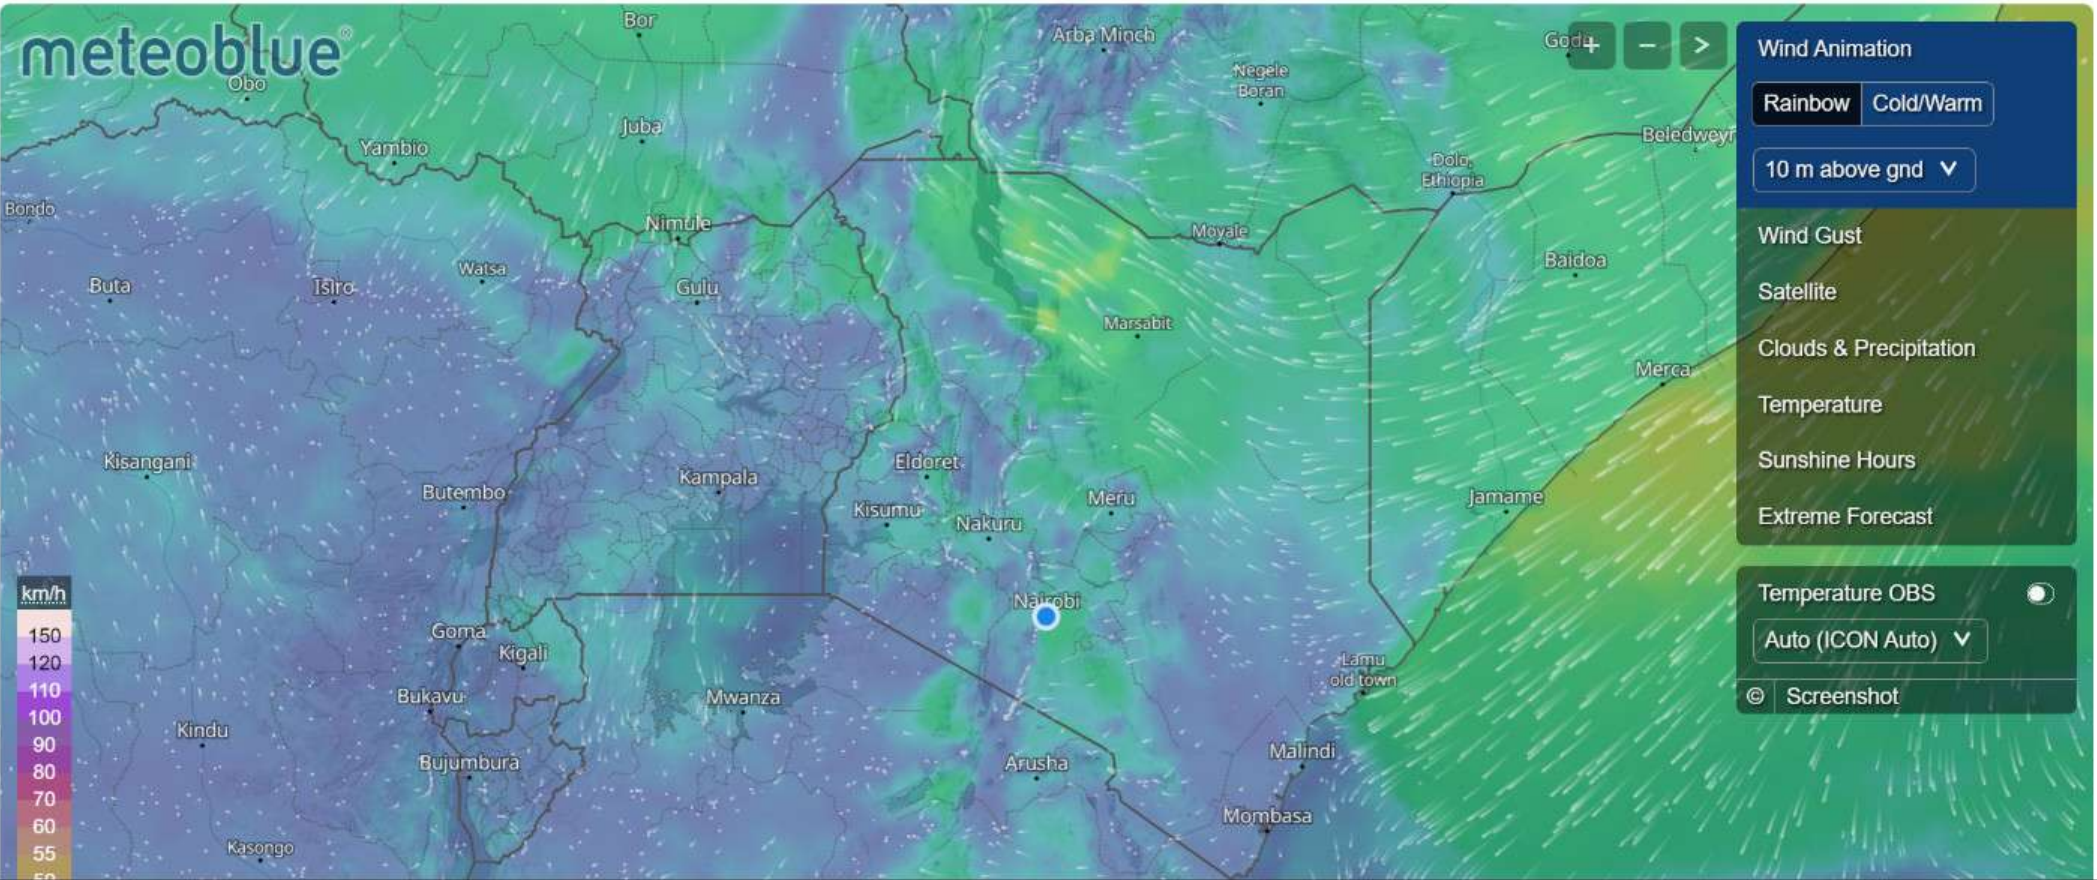

For the hottest month, the mean maximum air temperature is about 26-27 °C, the mean minimum air temperature is 14-16 °C, the mean temperature swing is about 10-12 °C, mean relative humidity is about 60-65%, and global solar radiation on horizontal surface about 6-7 kWh/m2 day.

For the coldest month, the mean maximum air temperature is about 20-24 °C, the mean minimum air temperature is 14-15 °C, the mean temperature swing is about 6-10 °C, mean relative humidity is about 60-75%, and global solar radiation over a horizontal surface is about 5-6 kWh/m2 day. The heating degree-days are about 25-370 (base 18 °C) and the cooling degree days are about 3000-3700.

The average annual precipitation is more than1200 mm. Some of the representative locations for this zone are: Nairobi, Kitale, Nakuru (Kenya), Arusha, Mbeya, Iringa (Tanzania), Mbale (Uganda), Kigali (Rwanda).

Comfort

The upland zone has a pleasant climate. Because of the high altitude, the conditions in this zone are similar to spring or autumn in a temperate climate. Temperatures are moderate and during daytime rarely exceed the upper limits of the comfort zones. During nighttime, the temperature is likely to drop below the lower limit of the comfort zone. The low night temperatures are a major source of discomfort.

Reduce home energy consumption by switching to LED lighting, using energy-efficient appliances, and improving insulation. Consider a programmable thermostat to optimize heating and cooling. Shift to sustainable transportation. Walk, cycle, or use public transport whenever possible. If driving is necessary, consider a fuel-efficient vehicle or carpooling. Adopt a plant-based diet or reduce meat consumption significantly. Animal agriculture is a major source of emissions; even small reductions can make a difference. Minimize food waste. Plan meals carefully, store food properly, and compost food scraps. Choose sustainable products. Prioritize items with minimal packaging, made from recycled materials, and sourced ethically. Support businesses committed to environmental responsibility. Offset unavoidable emissions. Invest in verified carbon offset projects, such as reforestation or renewable energy initiatives. This helps compensate for emissions you cannot currently eliminate.

WHERE YOUR WELLNESS COMES FIRST

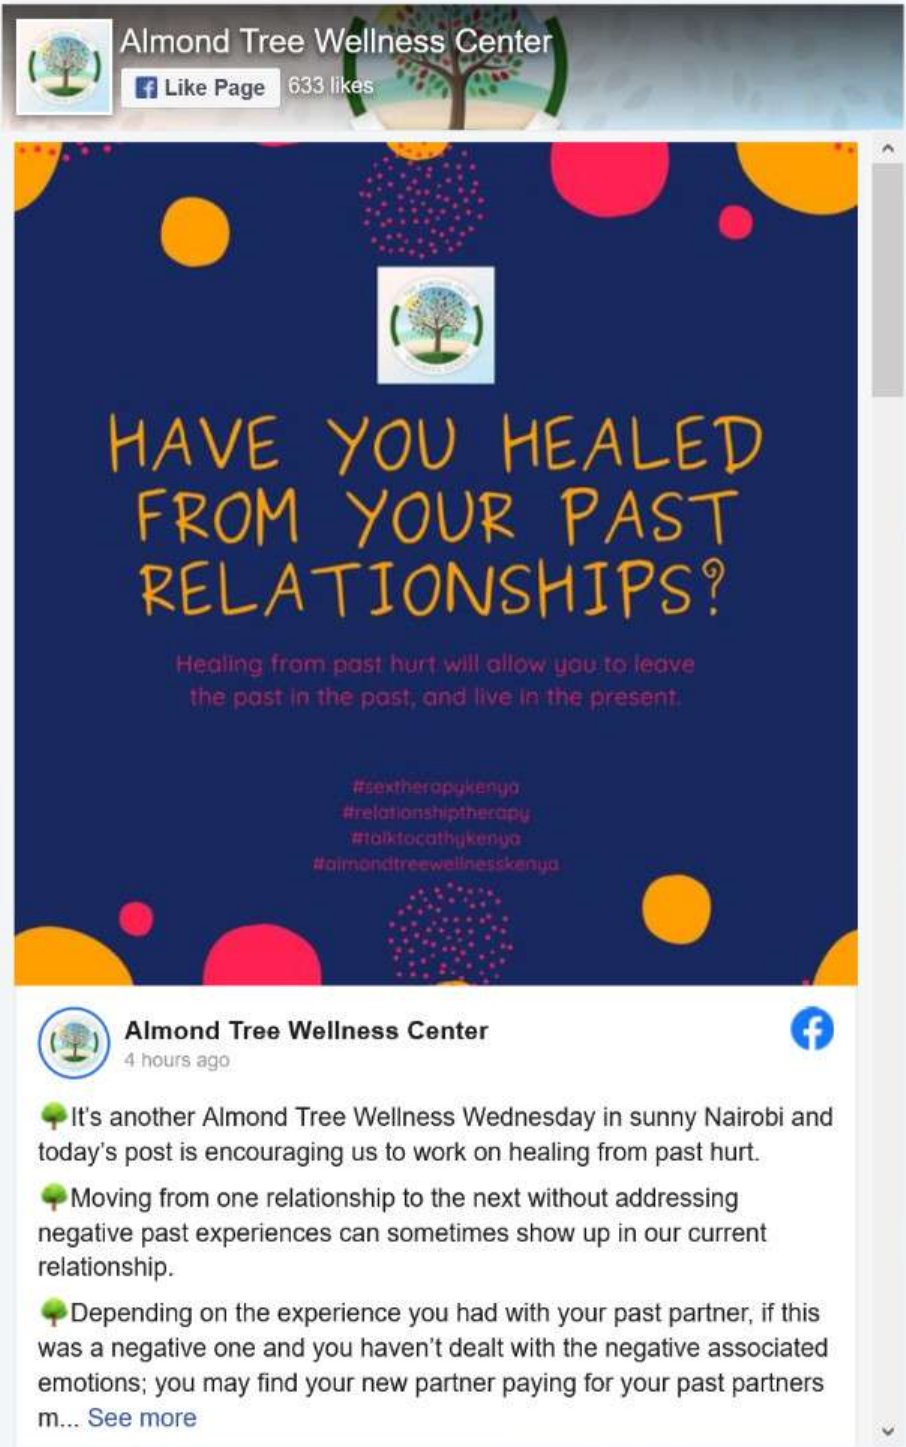

The Indian Almond Tree in full growth provides solace from natural elements like the sun, wind & rain; its leaves are a mix of green & dark red, & the actual almond seed is hard & green in colour – difficult to get through but possible to break. The Almond Tree Wellness Center originated from this concept where a single tree provides refuge for many & sometimes talking about sensitive issues are difficult but very possible, with the right approach.

“ Sexuality is central & an all-pervasive theme of human existence...
a fundamental aspect of human nature ”

Levay, Baldwin & Baldwin (2015)

At our center, we offer a safe & confidential environment to discuss any issues without fear, judgement or shame; we encourage our clients to share any relationship or sexual related issues to improve their well-being which is very important to us. Whether you require a consultation on your own or with your spouse our professional counsellor will be able to listen & cater to the concerns raised.

60 YEARS OF EXCELLENCE

about our founder

Since I was 7 years old I have held a vision: a world without people would look much better. People make noise, cut trees, disturb birds and cause global warming. Now that I am turning 60, I take a bold step that will divide the world in 2, you are with me or you get lost in a world that gets dominated by carbon.

our story

In early 2000 I started carbonmetrics, we were measuring GHG emissions and negotiated the Dutch carbon emissions trading platform.

The world looked simple: As a company you measure and you reduce your CO2 emission to remain under your ceiling. If you exceed you buy from a company that has a surplus of CO2

Challenges In Africa

Africa faces numerous challenges, including poverty, rapid population growth, climate change, social inequalities, rapid and unplanned urbanization, rural exodus, continuous environmental degradation, and high youth unemployment (over 70% of the population). Additionally, there is a lack of access to basic services such as water, energy, transportation, waste management, drainage, and green spaces. These challenges are now widely recognized as major obstacles to Africa's development.

Our Missions

ACREST aims to provide technical, technological, energy, and environmental solutions to promote self-sustained, locally-driven development based on the principles of social, environmental, and economic sustainability.

- Popularize and promote appropriate and sustainable technologies.
- Promote the use of renewable energy sources to improve people's living conditions.
- Contribute to the food, material, energy, and economic self-sufficiency of populations.
- Fight against poverty by creating opportunities, added value, and wealth.
- Contribute to environmental protection.

Our Vision

Contribute to Africa's economic independence.

Registered AWS Partner (APN 1339079) & Microsoft Partner (MPN 5247970) offering licensing, road mapping, implementation, user productivity, user adoption, security, & ongoing managed services at competitive pricing.

CLOUD MIGRATION

Cost Effectiveness

Running and maintaining your own IT servers is expensive. You need to purchase the right equipment and hire technicians to install and manage it. In addition, you need to constantly maintain and keep the hardware as well as necessary software licenses and infrastructure updated. When you shift to the cloud, you will only pay for the services procured. This allows you to consolidate and have better control over your IT budget since you pay only for what you use.

Security

Storing data and running resources on the cloud is a lot safer than on a local physical server. A breach of security at your premises can lead to compromised data and potential business downtime. If your data sits on the cloud, breaching the security measures on this platform is difficult because it's multi-layered and teams of cybersecurity experts work together to help safeguard this. Cloud computing also helps your business meet compliance standards requirements.

Availability

One of the major benefits of running services and resources on the cloud is, it gives you and your team the flexibility to continuously work anywhere at any time from any computing device with an internet connection. Being on the cloud allows your business to ensure efficient collaboration across locations, departments and even regions and effective sharing of information with other parties such as customers, contractors, partners and many Yo, champ! Let's break down this workout, get you looking and feeling right. We ain't playing games, this is about results.

30 DOUBLE UNDERS
Listen up, those double unders are a beast. Start slow, focus on that rhythm. Don't try to go all out from jump street. Practice your single unders until they're smooth as silk, then gradually introduce the doubles. Short bursts, rest, repeat. Consistency is key, fam. The link shows you the proper form. Master that first.

15 WALL BALL 9/6KG
Wall balls, huh? Power on! Get that explosive...
